

Mayor Michael B. Hancock's Five Goals for Youth

Mayor Michael B. Hancock's five goals to help ensure all Denver kids have their basic needs met, are prepared for academic and professional success are:

- Increase the number of children served by early childhood education programs by aligning publicly funded programs
- Increase the number of Denver third grade students who can read at grade level
- Reduce the number of disconnected youth
- Increase the number of high school students who complete a postsecondary pathway and obtain a job
- Reduce the number of overweight and obese children